About The Community

Eliav is a secular and religious community in the northern part of the Negev Desert. The town is named after the late Israeli politician Lova Eliav because of his values, social activism, and pioneering work in the Negev. The community was built at the end of the 2004 with the help of OR Movement "Pioneers" and is now home to 811 residents.

The community sustains shared community life, social engagement, tolerance, environmental & educational values, and aspires to be eco-friendly and restore the botanical selection in the region.

Our Mission

OR Movement is dedicated to building the future of Israel by creating new centers in the Negev and Galilee. As we work towards Israel becoming the best country in the world to live in- united, stable, thriving in a variety of fields, in all parts of the country, and for all citizens, we recognize the importance of a quality environment and community.

The Better Life Index reports that the quality of our local living environment has a direct impact on our health and well-being. As part of our Communihood actions, we build central meeting places that offer outdoor play, facilitate gatherings, and foster connections to the surrounding environment.

Our Park

Community is a central focus for OR Movement and an integral part of our vision in establishing united and thriving city centers in the Negev and Galilee. In our towns, parks serve as an integral recreational site. This park will offer open space, endless activity, community connection, and nature plazas.

Having access to green spaces is an essential part of life. Research has shown that an unspoiled environment is a source of satisfaction, improves mental well-being, allows people to recover from the stress of everyday life and to preform physical activity.

This park will keep the village "green" and authentic with local "Israeli-plougher" vegetation. The community of Eliav be able to further its efforts in environmental conservation, and the park will allow residents appreciate the benefits of nature.
